

Writer History tab present on examinee data window for PsychCorpCenter software

Frequently Asked Question:

There is a Writer History tab present on examinee data window for PsychCorpCenter software

Answer:

Writer History tabs display when you open an Examinee Data window for a new ABAS-II examinee.

If you have a Writer version of any PsychCorpCenter module installed on the same computer with ABAS-II Scoring Assistant, you will see the specific Writer History tab when you open the Examinee Data window. This is by product design. Depending on the PsychCorpCenter modules installed, you may see multiple History tabs.

The purpose of the PsychCorpCenter is to provide a common interface in which assessment-type products developed by The Psychological Corporation can reside, sharing common components for all products. The software is designed to allow for entry of examinee demographic information that can be used to record assessment or administration information, eliminating the need for duplicate entry of this information.
