

WG Short, A and B Assessments - Responses Required

The WG Short, A and B Assessments are set up so that each response is required, that is, the user cannot skip a question--they receive an error if they try to move on to the next question without providing an answer. This differs from how the WG II assessments function. The WG II assessments allow the candidate to skip questions, leaving answers blank for items they are unsure of as they go along.

If the candidate wishes they may use the mark for review functionality to allow them to review any items they are unsure of. The "mark for review" is the small checkbox to the left of each item number in the assessment. If the checkbox is checked, the candidate will be given the opportunity to review the item(s) at the end of each section.
