Which subtest is a good indicator of a basic reading deficiency?

Frequently Asked Question:

Which subtest is a good indicator of a basic reading deficiency?

Answer:

A low score in EITHER Word Reading or Pseudoword Decoding is indicative of a Basic Reading deficit. This is based on the research model of testing reading at all levels of language. Please see related information regarding the comparison of Pseudoword Decoding and Word Reading for students in Grade 1.