

Do I have to use all of the AIMSweb Behavior components?

No, you do not have to use all components provided in the AIMSweb Behavior module; you can choose any component in isolation or together. However, using all components provides one of the most comprehensive approaches to implementing a behavioral RTI solution. Use of the Benchmark components helps to ensure that all students are being evaluated for the presence of problematic behaviors that can impede successful school performance. Use of the Action Plan component helps to develop targeted, individualized behavior improvement, intervention, and monitoring plans that are tailored to meet the needs of each student. Use of the Progress Monitor component provides an easy, efficient, and effective way to document a student's behavioral improvement and change over time, providing the essential information needed to determine the effectiveness of intervention strategies that have been employed.
